Filing Description:

This filing introduces a new edition of NCCI's Basic Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance (Basic Manual). As this is a complete modernization of the Basic Manual, it is necessary to do a one-time "complete manual" filing to make regulatory review and approval, and subsequent customer use, easier in the future. We are, improving format and structure, making updates to statute changes, if applicable, and providing some clarity.

This filing does not make any substantive changes to any rule or classification that would result in premium impact.

Preface

Organization of the Basic Manual

Rule ID: BM-PREF-OBA71

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

The National Council on Compensation Insurance's (NCCI's) Basic Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance contains the Texas rules, classification phraseologies, pricing programs, and advisory loss costs for each classification, for writing workers compensation insurance.

Texas is a competitive rating jurisdiction where the rates and specified rules contained in this manual must be filed by, or filed to be adopted by, the carrier.

Introduction - Application of manual rules

Rule ID: BM-INTR-A0162

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

This manual contains rules, classifications, and rates that have been filed with, and approved by, state insurance regulators.

1. Rules apply separately to each policy, except as provided in rules related to premium discount and executive officers.
2. "You", "your", and "your company" refer to the carrier in NCCI's Basic Manual.
3. This manual applies to policies that come into effect on or after the effective date of this manual.
4. Changes to this manual, which include changes to rules, classifications, rates, or loss costs, are effective as of 12:01 a.m. on the date the change was approved by the state insurance regulator.
5. Changes to this manual made during a policy period are effective as of the policy effective date on or after the date of the change, unless otherwise specified.
6. Rules in this manual are based on policy periods of not longer than one year.
 - A policy issued for a period not longer than one year and 16 days is treated as a one-year policy.
 - A long-term policy is a policy issued for a period longer than one year and 16 days and is not a three-year fixed-rate policy.
 - The long-term policy period is divided into consecutive 12-month units.
 - The Policy Period Endorsement is attached to the long-term policy to designate either the first or last unit of less than 12 months as a short-term policy.
 - Rules, classifications, rates, and loss costs apply to each unit of a long-term policy as if it is a separate policy.
7. The National Council on Compensation Insurance, Inc. (NCCI) has the right to - inspect operations
 - assign classifications
 - determine if classifications have been appropriately assigned, and
 - determine if rules in this manual have been appropriately applied.
8. NCCI has authority to conduct test audits and require carriers to make corrections in accordance with the results of test audits.
9. Policyholders and carriers may request NCCI's assistance in resolving disputes between policyholders and carriers about the application of NCCI manual rules to NCCI's workers compensation and employers liability insurance policy (Policy).

NCCI's dispute resolution services provided through the Dispute Resolution Process (Process) are voluntary. The Process is not an administrative remedy that must be exhausted before the policyholder or carrier pursues relief in court. Using this Process does not prevent the policyholder or carrier from pursuing any available legal remedies at any time.

Refer to the Dispute Resolution Process for more information.
10. NCCI does not interpret state or federal laws pertaining to coverage issues.
11. Where identified, some rules, notes, or exceptions apply only in residual markets. In states where residual markets do not exist, these rules, notes, and exceptions do not apply.
12. Some rules in this manual are titled "Rules for ...," and some rules are not titled "Rules for" Regardless of the title, all are rules that have been filed with, and approved by, state insurance regulators.
13. This section contains information related to withdrawal or termination from self-insurance using a Liability Transfer Transaction (LTT).
 - Applicability of NCCI's Basic Manual rules to policies issued with LTTs: Except as detailed in Definitions and Requirements below, this manual does not apply to a workers compensation policy issued in conjunction with an LTT conducted pursuant to
 - withdrawal of a certified self-insurer (CSI) from self-insurance under an adequate program as defined in Texas Labor Code Section § 407.045(a-1), or
 - termination of a self-insured group's (SIG) certificate of approval under Texas Labor Code Section § 407A.101(b).
 - Definitions for withdrawal or termination from self-insurance:

- Liability transfer transaction (LTT)—Liability transfer transaction (LTT) means the transfer of a CSI's or SIG's incurred workers compensation obligations to an authorized insurer, as defined in Texas Labor Code Section 401.011(28), in exchange for a lump-sum payment, negotiated specifically for each transaction.
 - Incurred workers compensation obligations—Incurred workers compensation obligations means known and unknown obligations of a CSI or SIG to pay workers compensation benefits for claims incurred while the CSI or SIG was self-insured under Texas Labor Code Title 5, Subtitle A. Obligations include
 - all known claims and expenses associated with those claims, and
 - all incurred but not reported claims and expenses associated with those claims.
- Requirements for policies issued with LTTs: A workers compensation policy issued in conjunction with an LTT must
- comply with all applicable statutes and with all applicable rules promulgated by the Commissioner of the Texas Department of Insurance and the Commissioner of the Division of Workers' Compensation (DWC). For example, the assuming carrier must have an approved company-specific endorsement under Texas Insurance Code Section 2052.002(b).
 - be on a standard workers compensation policy form with the Texas Amendatory Endorsement. When the approved company-specific endorsement is attached to the policy, that endorsement determines coverage to the extent that it is in conflict with the policy or the Texas Amendatory Endorsement.
 - comply with all DWC data reporting requirements for claims under the Texas Labor Code and DWC rules. Further, Policy data and Unit Statistical data must not be reported to NCCI.

Rules for wages paid during idle time

Rule ID: BM-PAYW-RD3B7

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Idle time is downtime that occurs when employees are not working and the employer pays the employees for the time not worked. You must include in payroll all wages paid to the employee for idle time. Assign wages paid during this time to the classification for work normally performed by the employee under the following circumstances:

- delays or suspension of work due to weather conditions
- delays while waiting for materials
- delays while waiting for another party to complete certain work
- delays due to breakdown in equipment
- "stand-by" time where employees such as equipment operators are on the job but their active services are not required continuously
- special union requirements or agreements between employer and employees calling for pay for idle time under specific circumstances
- inability of nonstriking employees to perform normal duties due to other employees who are on strike, or
- all other causes of a similar nature.

Rule for idle nonstriking employees unable to perform normal duties due to other employees who are on strike

If nonstriking employees perform absolutely no work for their employer and are not present at their employer's premises or job sites during a strike period, you must assign their payroll to Code 8810, provided adequate records are maintained by the employer.

Applicability of the rules

For purposes of the Rules for wages paid during idle time, idle time does not include "paid furloughed employees" or "payments to paid furloughed employees" as provided in NCCI's Basic Manual Rules for payments to paid furloughed employees during federal, state, and/or local emergency orders, laws, or regulations issued due to the COVID-19 \(coronavirus\) pandemic. This paragraph will continue to remain in effect and will not expire until determined at a later date as circumstances warrant and in consultation with state regulatory authorities. A future filing will be made to establish an expiration date to this rule as determined and approved by the regulator.

- If the work performed by a key employee consists exclusively of drafting or other office work, or if a key employee is completely idle, assign the wages to Code 8810.
- Code 8810 is not available for office time of an employee who qualifies for Code 5606. It is normally expected that such an employee will spend a considerable portion of time performing office work.

Rules for payments to paid furloughed employees during federal, state, and/or local emergency orders, laws, or regulations issued due to the COVID-19 (coronavirus) pandemic

Rule ID: BM-PAYW-RD4B1

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Payments to paid furloughed employees must be assigned to Code 0012, in accordance with NCCI's Statistical Plan. Payments to paid furloughed employees made in accordance with the Rules for payments to paid furloughed employees during federal, state, and/or local emergency orders, laws, or regulations issued due to the COVID-19 (coronavirus) pandemic are excluded from the premium and experience rating calculations only if the employer keeps separate, accurate, and verifiable records. If separate, accurate, and verifiable records are not maintained, payroll is assigned to the classification for work normally performed by the employee prior to any emergency orders, laws, or regulations issued due to the COVID-19 (coronavirus) pandemic.

Employee not deemed a paid furloughed employee

If an employee is requested to perform any duties for an employer, the employee is not deemed a paid furloughed employee for any period of time they are performing duties for the employer. If the employee is not deemed a paid furloughed employee, payroll must be assigned to the classification applicable to the work being performed in accordance with NCCI's Basic Manual Classification system purpose and application rule.

Definitions for Rules for payments to paid furloughed employees during federal, state, and/or local emergency orders, laws, or regulations issued due to the COVID-19 (coronavirus) pandemic

For the purposes of the Rules for payments to paid furloughed employees during federal, state, and/or local emergency orders, laws, or regulations issued due to the COVID-19 (coronavirus) pandemic, paid furloughed employees and payments to paid furloughed employees are defined as:

- Paid furloughed employees—Paid furloughed employees means employees who continue to receive payments during a temporary layoff or an involuntary leave and are not performing any work duties for an employer.

Such payments do not include any appropriated funds or loans received by an employer as authorized by any law or regulation, or public governmental entity, that are used by an employer specifically to retain or hire working employees.

Applicability of the rules

The Rules for payments to paid furloughed employees during federal, state, and/or local emergency orders, laws, or regulations issued due to the COVID-19 (coronavirus) pandemic are effective March 1, 2020. Exclusion of overtime payroll

Rules for calculating overtime exclusions from payroll

Rule ID: BM-OVEE-RA8B2

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Exclude the extra pay for overtime from payroll on which premium is calculated, provided that the employer's records show overtime pay

- separately by employee, and
- in summary by classification.

Rule for calculating extra pay

Calculate extra pay as the difference between the regular pay rate and the overtime pay rate, multiplied by the number of overtime hours worked. Calculate overtime exclusions from payroll as follows:

- If the records show extra pay for overtime separately by employee and in summary by classification, exclude from payroll the entire extra pay.
- If the records show regular pay and overtime pay in one combined total amount, and time-and-a-half is paid for overtime, exclude from payroll one-third of total pay.

- If the records show regular pay and overtime pay in one combined total amount, and double time is paid for overtime, exclude from payroll one-half of the total pay.

Exception to overtime exclusions from payroll

Do not exclude overtime pay from payroll assigned to any classification under the caption Stevedoring with an F-Classification code.

- more than 8 hours in a day
- more than 40 hours in a week, or
- more hours in a day or a week than the typical number of hours for that employer or industry only when the employee works less than 8 hours per day or less than 40 hours per week. For example, when the workweek is usually 32 hours, treat any hours over 32 hours as overtime.

Nonpermitted exclusions from payroll for overtime pay

Do not exclude overtime pay from payroll when an employee

- works in excess of 40 hours per week or in excess of his or her typical workweek, and
- does not receive an increase in his or her normal hourly rate of pay for the overtime work.

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

In some industries, employees have guaranteed wage contracts or agreements that guarantee wages for work up to a specified number of hours per week. The guaranteed wage could be calculated on the basis of a partial amount of the guaranteed hours at regular pay, and the remaining hours at time-and-a-half of the regular rate of pay.

Example of guaranteed wage agreement

A guaranteed wage agreement for 50 hours a week might be calculated as 40 hours regular pay and 10 hours time-and-a-half.

Premium calculation

The full guaranteed wage is included in the premium calculation for any hours that an employee works up to the maximum number of 50 hours covered by the guaranteed wage, regardless of how this wage is calculated.

Earnings in excess of guaranteed wages

Overtime is calculated only on the extra amount of pay over the guaranteed wages.

Overtime exclusions from payroll for premium pay

Rule ID: BM-OVEE-OEA7F

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Premium pay differs from overtime pay. Premium pay is extra compensation paid to employees who work special hours and days or work under unusual conditions that may traditionally be considered overtime. Special hours and days include Saturdays, Sundays, holidays, nights, or weekends. Even if the employee has not worked the usual workweek, it is considered premium pay, but not overtime, when it is the normal pay for working these shifts.

Example of premium pay vs. overtime pay

Premium pay: For a workweek of 40 hours, the day shift is paid $10 per hour, and the night shift is paid $15 per hour. Overtime exclusions from payroll are not applied to night-shift pay because this is the typical pay for working night-shift. Instead, it is considered premium pay.

Overtime pay: For a night shift employee who works more than the usual workweek of 40 hours and receives an extra amount of pay over the regular rate of $15 per hour for the additional hours, that extra pay is considered overtime pay and may be excluded from payroll.

Executive officers

Rule ID: BM-EXEC-E11E8

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

For purposes of classification assignment and premium determination, executive officers of a corporation, an unincorporated association, or a professional association are the president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, or any other officer appointed in accordance with the charter or bylaws of such entity. This also applies to the payroll assignment of executive officers performing flight duties.

Executive officers paid by one or more corporations

Executive officers may be paid by one or more corporations. In some cases, the multiple corporations may be insured by a single carrier under one or more policies. If so, the multiple corporations are considered a single unit with respect to the application of the executive officer rule. In all other cases, the rule applies on a policy basis.

You must assign executive officers to the classification that applies to the principal operations that the executive officer performs.

Rule when executive officer performs construction, erection, stevedoring, or oil and gas field operations

Rule for premium determination of executive officers

Rule ID: BM-EXEP-RE6B6

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Base the premium for executive officers on their total payroll, subject to the following limitations and the requirements of the Rules for applying payroll limitations to classifications.

Minimum and maximum individual payroll

The minimum and maximum individual payroll for an executive officer are found in the advisory loss costs miscellaneous values.

Application of minimum and maximum limitations

Minimum and maximum limitations apply to the average weekly payroll of each executive officer for the number of weeks the officer was employed during the policy period. When an individual is not an executive officer for the entire policy period, prorate the payroll limitation based on the number of weeks that the individual was an executive officer.

When to include payroll in premium determination

Include payroll, subject to minimum and maximum limitations, when any of the following apply:

- The executive officer does not perform any duties but frequently visits the premises.
- The executive officer frequently visits the premises of the employer for business conferences, directors' meetings, or similar duties, even if the officer is an employee or officer of another employer in the operations of which the officer takes an active interest.
- The officer receives no salary. However, a regular salary is credited to the officer in the employer's financial records. In this instance, include the amount credited in payroll.
- The officer receives no salary, either drawn or credited, or the audit records fail to disclose the salary. In this instance, include in payroll the applicable minimum individual payroll for an executive officer found in the advisory loss costs miscellaneous values.

Assign the payroll of an executive officer who is a pilot or member of the flying crew of an aircraft used in the employer's business based on the pilot's logbook, which is required under federal regulations, or on the basis of verifiable records.

- For each day that the executive officer did not perform flight duties, assign the executive officer's payroll in accordance with the Rule for premium determination of executive officers.
- For each day the executive officer performed flight duties, you must assign the payroll calculated on the basis of 300 days a year to the appropriate aviation flying crew classification. However, if the executive officer's nonflying duties on such a day are subject to a higher rated classification, assign the higher rated classification for that day.

No verifiable records

If an aviation flying crew classification applies and verifiable records are not kept to indicate those days during which flying is performed by executive officers, assign the executive officer's payroll to the highest rated classification that applies to any of their duties.

Catastrophe provisions

Rule ID: BM-PARC-C499F

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Catastrophe provisions of the policy are (a) Terrorism, and (b) Terrorism Risk Insurance Act (TRIA) of 2002 and any amendments thereto enacted by Congress.

Premium for Terrorism

Premium for Terrorism is calculated on the basis of total payroll according to Rules for calculating the premium and Payroll rules. Premium is calculated by dividing an employer's total payroll in Texas by units of \$100 and multiplying the result by the terrorism rate filed by the carrier with the Texas Department of Insurance. The calculation is expressed as $\text{Payroll}/100 \times \text{Terrorism Rate} = \text{Premium}$.

This premium is added to the total standard premium and is not subject to any other modifications including, but not limited to

- premium discount
- experience rating
- modeled rating
- schedule rating
- retrospective rating, or
- premium incentive for small employers.

A policy issued on an "if any" basis is not charged this premium unless such policy develops premium during the policy term or at audit.

Per capita classifications are not subject to this premium charge.

Expense constant

Rule ID: BM-EXPE-EDFCD

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

This rule provides information regarding the application of the expense constant.

The expense constant

- is a premium charge that is applied to every policy regardless of premium size
- contributes to the recovery of expenses common to issuing, recording, and auditing a policy
- is charged at the inception of the policy and will not change when a state is added or deleted during the policy term
- is included in the minimum premium for each classification, and must not be added to the minimum premium if the minimum premium becomes the final premium for the policy, and
- is filed by or on behalf of the carrier as this is a competitive rating jurisdiction.

The expense constant applied to a policy is found on the policy's Information Page.

Rule ID: BM-PREM-P4F3F

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

A policy qualifies for premium discount when the standard premium exceeds the eligibility amount authorized by the insurance regulatory authority.

Rules for determining premium discount

Rule ID: BM-PRED-RB6D1

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Determine the premium discount based on total standard premium.

Rule for determining premium discount on single-state policies

For a single-state policy, apply the appropriate discount percentages to the amount of total standard premium that exceeds the authorized threshold amount.

Rule for determining premium discount on multistate policies

For a multiple-state policy, apply premium discount on an interstate basis. Determine premium discount by applying the appropriate discount percentages to each state's portion of the total standard premium that exceeds the authorized threshold amount. To calculate each state's portion of the threshold amount and varying gradations of premium discount, multiply the total standard premium by the ratio of state standard premium to total standard premium.

Rule for determining premium discount on policies with retrospective rating

For a policy with retrospective rating, do not apply premium discount to the portion of the standard premium subject to a Retrospective Rating Plan. Start by totaling the premium of all entities to determine the amount subject to the Retrospective Rating Plan. Calculate the premium discount as if none of the premium is subject to retrospective rating (X). Then calculate the premium discount for the premium subject to retrospective rating only (Y). Premium discount is the difference between (X) and (Y). The total premium discount by state is distributed by allocating the state portion of standard premium to the premium discount.

Rule for determining premium discount using any other method

Any other method of determining premium discount may be used, as long as the result does not differ by more than 0.1% of the standard premium from the premium discount calculated using the methods outlined in Rules for determining premium discount or the result gives at least the same amount of discount as Table 1 - Type A carriers premium discount table, in percent.

Rules for determining premium discount for combined policies

Rule ID: BM-PREC-R3DH6

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

When determining premium discount for two or more policies that are issued to the same employer by one or more carriers that are under the same management, the total standard premium for those policies may be combined.

Rule for determining premium discount on combined policies with different expiration dates

When policies that are combined have different expiration dates

- you must determine the policy effective date for application of the premium discount
- you must cancel all policies that are in effect before the determined effective date and rewrite these policies as of the determined policy effective date, and
- all policies written to be effective after the determined effective date of the combination of policies must expire on the same date as the other policies in the combination.

- When the contractor provides complete payroll records of the subcontractor's employees, use the payroll detailed in the records to calculate the additional premium.
- When the contractor provides incomplete payroll records and the subcontract price does not reflect a definite payroll amount, use the full subcontract price of the work performed during the policy period by the subcontractor as payroll.
- When the contractor provides incomplete payroll records, but documentation of a specific job discloses that a definite amount of the subcontract price represents payroll, use the payroll amount indicated by the documentation provided as the payroll. This payroll amount is subject to Minimum percentages to calculate additional premium rule.

Minimum percentages to calculate additional premium

Minimums to calculate additional premium are a percentage of the subcontract price. The percentage depends on the type of job performed. Calculate an amount not less than

- 33 1/3% of the subcontract price for mobile equipment with operators such as, but not limited to, earth movers, graders, bulldozers, or log skidders
- 50% of the subcontract price for labor and material
- 90% of the subcontract price for labor only, and
- 100% of the subcontract price for piecework. The entire amount paid to pieceworkers must be the payroll.

Rule for contracted vehicle workers entitled to workers compensation insurance

Rule ID: BM-SUBC-R7603

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Owners of vehicles with drivers, chauffeurs, messengers, or helpers may engage these workers under verbal or written contract. These workers may be entitled to benefits under workers compensation insurance law. Charge premium on the vehicles' owner's policy when evidence of required workers compensation insurance has not been provided.

Use owner-provided documents to calculate payroll

When the owner of the vehicle has not provided evidence of workers compensation insurance, calculate the payroll amount based on the documentation provided by the vehicle owner as follows:

- When payroll can be obtained, you must include the total payroll of the contractors as the payroll of the insured employer that contracted for the vehicles.
- When payroll is not provided or the worker is an owner-operator and does not receive a set payroll, you must include one-third of the total contract price for the vehicles as payroll of the workers. If the contract price does not include the cost of fuel, maintenance, or other services provided to the owner or the owner-operator, you must add the value of these goods and services to the contract price before determining the one-third amount.

Employers Liability increased limits percentage

Rule ID: BM-EMPI-E20A7

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Employers Liability increased limits percentage is a percentage that applies to the manual premium if the employer chooses to increase its standard limits under Part Two—Employers Liability.

Part Two limits of liability increases

If the limits of liability under Part Two are increased

- The limits of liability must be the same for all states specified in Item 3A of the Information Page of the policy.
- The additional premium for increased limits may be determined by multiplying the total manual premium by a percentage up to the maximum percentage in the Employers Liability increased limits percentage table or Table 1—Workers compensation and employers liability—Table for minimum premium and increased limits percentages.

The Department requires a carrier to make a rate filing if the carrier uses lower percentages for increased limits than the percentages found in the Employers Liability increased limits percentage table or Table 1—Workers compensation and employers liability—Table for minimum premium and increased limits percentages.

- As a competitive rating jurisdiction, the additional premium must not be less than the minimum premium, if any, filed by or on behalf of the carrier and approved for use by the appropriate insurance regulatory authority.
- The minimum premium for increased limits is in addition to the policy minimum premium at standard limits of liability and applies although coverage for increased limits may have been added during the policy term.
- When more than one state is insured on the same policy
 - the applicable increased limits minimum premium for the policy is that of the state with the highest increased limits minimum premium, or
 - no increased limits minimum premium applies to any of the states when the premium calculated for all states equals or exceeds the increased limits minimum premium for the state with the highest increased limits minimum premium. The combined increased limits premium for all states apply.

Employer requirements for maintaining records

Rule ID: BM-TYPD-E0C57

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

An employer classified to Code 0908 or Code 0913 must maintain a record of the names, duties, and period of service of each domestic worker. Domestic workers need not be named on the policy or on the Information Page. The substitution of one worker for another requires no notice to the carrier.

An employer classified to Code 0923 must maintain payroll records for all domestic workers covered on a workers compensation policy because workers compensation premium is determined on a payroll basis.

Rules for determining premium of domestic workers—residences

Rule ID: BM-PARP-RF584

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Determine premium for domestic workers according to the rules for part-time or full-time workers, as appropriate.

Rules for determining premium of part-time domestic workers

You must calculate the estimated premium of domestic workers classified to Code 0908 based on the estimated aggregate (total) time of all occasional domestic workers employed during the policy period.

Regardless of concurrent employment, apply a single per capita charge for each aggregate of employed time 20 hours or less per workweek. Apply an additional per capita charge to any remainder less than 20 hours or less per workweek.

Rules for determining premium of full-time domestic workers

You must calculate the estimated premium of domestic workers classified to Code 0913 based on the estimated number of full-time domestic workers employed during the policy period.

Prorate the per capita premium charges if additional domestic workers classified to Code 0913 are employed during the policy period, or if some domestic workers are no longer employed and are not replaced.

Apply each pro rata charge based on the period of employment or on 25% of the per capita charge, whichever is greater.

Rule for determining premium of domestic workers classified to Code 0923

Calculate the premium of domestic workers classified to Code 0923 based on the total payroll for domestic workers during the policy period.

Rule for applying minimum premium for policies with two or more classifications

Rule ID: BM-TYPD-R6EAO

For a policy with two or more classifications, whether per capita rated or payroll rated, apply the highest minimum premium for any classification on the policy.

Summary of Dispute Resolution Process

Rule ID: BM-DISP-D5B65

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

The Dispute Resolution Process is intended to assist in the resolution of disputes between policyholders and carriers about the application of NCCI manual rules to NCCI's workers compensation and employers liability insurance policy (Policy). The Dispute Resolution Process interprets and applies NCCI manual rules based on the facts of each dispute.

Under this Dispute Resolution Process, policyholders and carriers can seek dispute resolution services. If the carrier brings the dispute, the dispute is treated in the same manner as if brought by a policyholder under this Dispute Resolution Process.

NCCI Manual Rules

Rule ID: BM-DISP-N6F1B

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

NCCI manual rules are rules pertaining to the application of the workers compensation rating system used as the basis for premium calculation. This system includes, but is not limited to, classifications and experience rating modifications.

The NCCI manual rules that are in effect for the policy period(s) in dispute are the rules that apply to the Dispute Resolution Process.

Dispute Resolution Process steps

Rule ID: BM-DISS-D3B90

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

The Dispute Resolution Process has three steps.

Policyholder attempts to resolve dispute with the carrier

First, a policyholder must make a reasonable attempt to resolve the dispute directly with the carrier. The policyholder must calculate and pay the carrier all undisputed premium that is due. The policyholder must provide to the carrier an estimate of the premium in dispute with a written explanation of the premium calculation.

Policyholder asks for NCCI assistance

Second, when a policyholder cannot resolve the dispute directly with the carrier, the policyholder may submit a written request to NCCI to review the manner in which the NCCI manual rules have been applied to its policy.

All issues in dispute for the same policy and policy period must be submitted for resolution at the same time.

The policyholder's written request must establish a bona fide dispute. NCCI receives and reviews the dispute and determines the appropriate next step.

NCCI assists with the bona fide dispute

Third, when the dispute is a bona fide dispute, NCCI attempts to assist the policyholder and the carrier in reaching a resolution.

When NCCI is unable to resolve the bona fide dispute, NCCI provides written communication to all parties that the dispute could not be resolved through the Dispute Resolution Process.

References

Refer to Criteria to determine whether a dispute is bona fide for information about establishing bona fide disputes.

Dispute resolution services time frame

Rule ID: BM-DISS-DD3BD

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Requests for dispute resolution services must be within three years of the policy expiration date for the policy in dispute.

Time extensions

NCCI does not grant time extensions.

Disputes involving interstate policies

Rule ID: BM-DISD-D32FD

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

For disputes regarding interstate policies, when the resolution of the issue in the Dispute Resolution Process affects the policyholder's premium in more than one state, NCCI's decision applies only to business operations located in the state of the dispute.

Other remedies remain available

Rule ID: BM-DISD-OA934

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

NCCI's Dispute Resolution Process services are voluntary. The process is not an administrative remedy that must be exhausted before the policyholder or carrier pursues relief in court. Using the Dispute Resolution Process does not prevent the policyholder or carrier from pursuing any available legal remedies at any time.

NCCI's role in the Dispute Resolution Process

Rule ID: BM-DIST-NFE32

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

As the advisory organization in Texas, NCCI reviews requests for dispute resolution services and may request information from all parties, as applicable.

Conflict of interest

NCCI, in its role as an advisory organization, is deemed not to have a conflict of interest regarding any dispute, based solely on the fact that NCCI is affiliated with, and/or provides services to, a party or one of its representatives involved in the dispute.

Receipt of requests for dispute resolution services

Rule ID: BM-DIST-RC45E

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

NCCI, as the advisory organization in Texas, sends an acknowledgment letter to the policyholder and the carrier within 20 calendar days of receiving a request for dispute resolution services. The letter provides the name and contact information of the NCCI staff member assigned to the dispute.

Criteria to determine whether a dispute is bona fide

Rule ID: BM-DIST-DE5BC

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

NCCI, as the advisory organization in Texas, determines, based on its technical knowledge, whether the policyholder has established a bona fide dispute.

A bona fide dispute exists when the policyholder submits a written request that includes

- a request for dispute resolution services
- an estimate of the premium in dispute
- verification of payment of all undisputed premium provided to the carrier, and a written explanation of the premium calculation in accordance with the Dispute Resolution Process
- all documentation relevant to the dispute, and
- a description of the attempts to resolve the dispute directly with the carrier.

Carrier's failure to provide information by the deadline

A policyholder is required to establish a bona fide dispute within a reasonable time frame, but never more than 6 months from the original date of the policyholder's request. NCCI may determine that the policyholder is unable to establish a bona fide dispute because the carrier failed to provide all the requested information by the deadline.

If the policyholder provides all requested information that is available by the deadline, then the policyholder is deemed to have established a bona fide dispute, and NCCI will attempt to assist the policyholder and the carrier in reaching a resolution.

Determination of whether a request is within the scope of the Dispute Resolution Process and bona fide

Rule ID: BM-DIST-D41AC

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

NCCI, as the advisory organization in Texas, determines whether a request for dispute resolution services is within the scope of the Dispute Resolution Process and whether the dispute is bona fide. These dispute resolution services do not prevent the policyholder or carrier from pursuing any legal remedies at any time.

Dispute is not within the scope of the Dispute Resolution Process

If NCCI determines that the dispute is not within the scope of the Dispute Resolution Process, then NCCI will advise the policyholder or carrier that the Dispute Resolution Process does not apply.

Dispute is bona fide and within the scope of the Dispute Resolution Process

If NCCI determines that a bona fide dispute within the scope of the Dispute Resolution Process exists, then NCCI will attempt to assist the policyholder and the carrier in reaching a resolution.

- If the dispute is resolved, then NCCI will provide written communication to all parties, confirming that the dispute was resolved.
- If NCCI is unable to resolve the dispute, then NCCI will provide written communication to all parties that the dispute could not be resolved through the Dispute Resolution Process.

Dispute is not bona fide

If NCCI determines that a bona fide dispute does not exist, NCCI will advise the policyholder in writing that it has not established a bona fide dispute, and that NCCI will not provide dispute resolution services under this Dispute Resolution Process.

Failure to establish a bona fide dispute includes

- Failing to establish a bona fide dispute within a reasonable time frame, but never more than six months from the original date of the policyholder's request.
- Submission of a request for dispute resolution services after three years of the policy expiration date of the Policy in dispute.
- The policyholder's failure to provide all requested information after NCCI's third request.

Where to send dispute resolution requests

Rule ID: BM-DIST-W92C3

Effective Date: November 1, 2021

Initial requests for dispute resolution services must be sent to NCCI by mail, email, or fax.

The dispute resolution request sent to NCCI must be sent simultaneously to all other parties to the dispute.

Filing Memorandum

Item B-1444—NCCI's Basic Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance

Purpose

This filing introduces a new edition of NCCI's Basic Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance (Basic Manual). As this is a complete modernization of the Basic Manual, it is necessary to do a one-time "complete manual" filing to help make regulatory review and approval, and subsequent customer use, easier in the future. We are:

- improving format and structure
- making updates to statute changes, if applicable, and
- providing some clarity, if needed.

This filing does not make any substantive changes to any rule or classification that would result in premium impact.

In NCCI Plan Administered states and Indiana, this Item filing is being submitted simultaneously with Item RM-W-8047—NCCI's Residual Market Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance. Due to the size and number of exhibits attached to the Item filing, NCCI is submitting the Item filing to each state regulator individually. NCCI has divided its states into three groups; the Item filings will be submitted to the regulators group-by-group, beginning in December through January.

Background

Modernized Structure and Format for Quickly Finding Information

NCCI has embarked upon a multiyear initiative that will modernize and transform the way we deliver our key information, starting with our manuals and circulars. NCCI's Atlas Initiative will create a new and easier way of navigating nearly 100 years of workers compensation content. NCCI is transforming how we write, manage, and distribute information for our customers.

This new edition of the Basic Manual has been modernized with emphasis on structure and format for online consumption of the content, so that customers can quickly find the information they need in an increasingly electronic environment. To do that, NCCI has completely redesigned, restructured, and optimized our content, changing the overall appearance of the manual to better meet customer needs. Previously, NCCI has focused on substantive changes to the content in our manuals but made minor improvements in overall structure and format. Through this modernization effort, NCCI focused on the overall format and structure of the content while maintaining the context and intent of the rules.

Customers want information they can easily find and immediately use. They want it to be topic-based for fast and relevant retrieval and presented in a format that can be quickly scanned for accurate information. Applying structured authoring techniques to NCCI content is the critical first step to achieving these goals. Correctly applied, structured authoring ensures the completeness, correctness, and consistency of content. Through adoption of these writing standards, NCCI is developing effective, sustainable, and adaptable content to respond to the changing needs and demands of our customers.

Item B-1444—NCCI's Basic Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance

Topic-Based, Structured Authoring Techniques

Like many organizations today, NCCI realizes that our customers want answers and they want them fast. They do not have the time to search through multiple NCCI manuals. NCCI is modernizing the delivery of our content to provide topic-based information and answers to online questions quickly, by applying structured authoring techniques to all manuals.

Structured authoring transforms content by breaking it down into topics. We have rewritten the content to make it more usable, discoverable, and valuable for our customers. By simply breaking content into smaller blocks of easily digestible topics, it is easier to find, read, and understand. In addition, organizing the content with titles and by topic relevance, in concert with the smaller blocks, focuses the customer on the information they're looking for. Modernizing each manual throughout our content library, in this consistent manner over time, will help eliminate duplicative or confusing information, so users can quickly identify related topics and improve understanding of the information presented.

Goals of Restructure

NCCI recognized that these modernization efforts were necessary to maximize customer usage and understanding of our manuals. The result was an opportunity to do a complete review on every block of content in the Basic Manual to ensure consistency and compliance in and across the states, which helped improve the overall manual. However, as we were rewriting and restructuring these rules, we kept this goal in mind – do not change the context or intent of the content. Consequently, multiple subject matter and legal reviews occurred to ensure that the context and intent of the content are intact.

Focus Areas

During the rewrite and review of the manual, we identified three focus areas to improve and modernize the content for online consumption.

Structure – Our goal is to give our customers the answers they need without having to search through various NCCI manuals. This necessitated multiple changes to accommodate how customers could retrieve answers to their questions.

The structure of the Basic Manual had to be modernized including the following changes:

1. State-based Rules – When rewriting and modernizing the rules, we started with creating state-based manuals that include rules for each state only. Allowing for the state exception rule to be placed within the topic that it applies to, in lieu of exception pages at the end of the manual, makes it much easier to find and understand those exceptions. This allows for the elimination of state exception pages and for the production of a complete state-based Basic Manual that has all the rules and classification codes in one place.

Adversely, there are a few tables such as the Table of Classifications by Hazard Group and the State Payroll Determination Formula Tables, where presenting the information for a single state was difficult. A decision was made to keep these types of tables in their current format, until a better formatting solution can be developed. Therefore, some tables include information for multiple states.

Note: During a subsequent deliverable, we will provide the ability to combine multiple states or all NCCI states in one manual.

Such actions taken by you, or by your direction, may be in violation of federal copyright and other commercial laws. NCCI does not permit or acquiesce such use of its materials. Item B-1444—NCCI's Basic Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance

2. Topic-based Format – When searching for information, our customers indicated that they look for information by topic and need to know what the answer is to a question about "Topic A" or "Topic B". Because the customer knows the topic, not the rule number, they need to be able to find the information that way. By reorganizing the new Basic Manual by topic, we can answer those questions and more.
3. Numbering Sequence – By structuring our content by topic level and creating smaller blocks of content, customers should see a reduction in the levels of hierarchy in our manuals. This allows us to introduce a new identification number (ID) that will be unique to each piece of content and permanently assigned to it. The benefit of this new ID number is that it allows NCCI more flexibility to
 - insert new content into a topic
 - move existing content to other parts of the manual, or
 - reuse that same content in another manual to improve consistency and quality.

The new numbering sequence is based on where the content is originally created; for example, BM-RuleID- Algo-0001, which is translated to Basic Manual-Rule-Algorithm-Randomly Generated Number.

An example of the reuse capabilities are the class codes, phraseologies, and notes that are filed in the Basic Manual but also used in NCCI's Scopes[®] of Basic Manual Classifications (Scopes[®] Manual). We can now update the content once and ensure that the content is consistently updated wherever it is used.

4. Structured Format Methods – The Basic Manual content is varied, and so are the methods in which it was written. The formats within the manual are now consistently used overall to convey a specific type of information, explaining a concept, reference, principle, process, or task. To help clearly convey the information, each of the methods may have minor differences in format by design.

These include the use of

- active vs. passive voice
- topic-specific titling methods
- paragraphs, lists, inline lists, or bullets, and
- other minor format changes.

By using these writing methods, we focused on addressing our customers' needs and answering any questions they may have. There may be minor formatting adjustments made in the future when aligning similar or the same content across manuals to ensure understanding and output for the customers.

5. Table of Contents (TOC) – Each manual will retain a Table of Contents. Since we are creating high-level topics for easier and quicker reference and reducing the number of levels that content can be broken down into, the TOCs may be longer. In addition to the TOC for the entire manual, there are mini TOCs within topics that have more than one subtopic to help customers navigate the content.
6. Navigation – The Table of Contents and mini TOCs throughout the manual have links that allow you to move around the PDF for ease of navigation. Clicking on the topic in both the TOC and the mini TOC will take you to the page where that topic is located. The Basic Manual will also include an Alphabetical Index, which can be continuously updated to help customers locate information. The Index is included in Informational Exhibit 3.

7. PDF vs. Online – This Item is a PDF document and, therefore, does not fully recreate the appearance, functionality, and features that will be available to the user of the new online version of the Basic Manual next year. However, it will contain the same regulatory approved rules and information in both the PDF and the online version.
8. Online Consumption – NCCI will offer different ways to view information online that will include search by manual, topic, bookmarks, or Alphabetical Index, and the ability to create your own bookmarks or preferences for frequently used information.

In addition, we can add new functionality online in the future. Once a filing has been approved with a future effective date, we will identify that content with a footnote to indicate that it will have a future update. We will also provide an effective date and this item filing number associated with the change on the page under the topic.

Content – During the modernization effort, we identified some improvements based on regulator and carrier feedback. In addition, economic and industry events necessitated a significant number of filings this year, such as those for COVID-19, that were addressed in the filing. As a result, we made these specific changes to improve the overall use of the information and potentially reduce the size of future filings.

The changes occur in these specific categories:

1. Residual Market Manual – To improve customers' ability to focus on content by market type, NCCI created a new Residual Market Manual for each state where NCCI serves as Plan Administrator. This Residual Market Manual contains content that was previously included in Rule 4 in the Basic Manual and any rules or information that apply to residual market policies only. NCCI's Residual Market Manual includes the assigned risk rules, rates, premium algorithms, and miscellaneous rules. Those rules that apply to both the voluntary and residual market (assigned risk market) will continue to be included in the Basic Manual. NCCI's Residual Market Manual will be filed simultaneously with this Item, in a separate filing.
2. Classification Section – The classification section has been restructured and placed at the end of the Basic Manual since it contains the largest volume of content in the manual, at more than 300 pages. This section provides a list of all class codes, phraseologies, and notes for the state. There have been no changes or eliminations to any class codes or phraseologies. The notes, for the class codes that have notes, have been rewritten in the structured authoring style. Additionally, applicable classification codes now have the operation type symbol and associated description included. Once approved, this information will be automatically updated in the Scopes® Manual and NCCI's Class Look-Up tool.
3. Approved Item Filings – Upon submission of this Item, NCCI has included all filed content that was approved as of October 1, 2020. This content has been rewritten in the new structured writing format and included in the appropriate topic. This includes previously approved national and state item filings, for example, the applicable classification transition programs, COVID-19 filings and the Hazard Group filing.
4. Pending Item Filings – Filings that have been submitted for approval, but are still pending in some states, have not been included in this Item. Content that is approved subsequent to this Item for the Basic Manual (2001 edition) will need to be rewritten in the structured authoring format and placed in the Basic Manual (effective 11/01/2021) or Residual Market Manual with the prior approval of the regulatory authority, or it will need to be refiled to address the new format changes.

5. New Item Filings – Due to the November 1, 2021 effective date, there may be instances, such as regulator requests, legislation, and statutory changes, that may require NCCI to submit a subsequent filing for rule and classification changes in the Basic Manual (2001 edition) with an effective date prior to November 1, 2021. NCCI may need to file an update to Item "B-1444" to reflect the format revisions to such rules.

State Content Changes – As indicated, the goal of modernizing the Basic Manual was to maintain the context and intent of the content. Throughout the process, we had multiple subject matter and legal reviews to ensure consistency and compliance. In some states, we incorporated necessary updates that are addressed in this Item in an attempt to minimize the need for any future filings. For states that required changes and clarifications, we have updated the rule or classification phraseology within the topic. These specific rules are provided in the State Content Changes exhibit (Information Exhibit 2).

Any update falls into one of the following categories:

1. Statutory or Compliance – After legal review of the content, updates to statute or regulation references were needed, as they had not been updated. In these instances, the rule or classification phraseology was changed to comply with a statute or regulation. For example, in some cases just the statute number had changed, but in a few cases, the name of the program had been changed, so we updated them to comply with the latest statute.
2. Clarification – One of the main clarifications we made in the manuals is who the rules are written for. In many cases, we say "you". Is that the employer, agent, regulatory authority, or carrier? Since the application of these rules is conducted by the carrier and defined that way in the manual, we have explicitly stated that "you" is the carrier, because carriers issue the policies. In other cases, we clarified where to refer to for further information.
3. Consistency for Ease of Application – The rules and classification notes have been written over many years, and this led to inconsistencies in the same content for different states. There may have been minor structural issues that were not clear when looking at state content independently, but, when looking at all content together, it made sense to clarify for consistency. For example, some states may have had the name of the miscellaneous rules in the title, while others did not. As a result, we added the state name to all miscellaneous rule programs. In addition, the deductible program had some structural and titling inconsistencies that were updated.
4. Removal of State Exceptions – In some instances, state exceptions were found to be outdated through legal reviews. Some had minor differences that did not actually need an exception. For example, we eliminated the use of people's names or titles in state exceptions; "send to Mr. John Smith, Director of Insurance" was changed to "send to the Director of Insurance" to avoid future filings. Another example is the use of "exclude" vs. "deduct" when referring to "overtime pay from payroll "in a state exception. By using the consistent language, a state exception can be eliminated.
5. Updates – We also updated some areas due to process improvements over the last few years. For example, we removed endorsement numbers when making filings for rule revisions. By removing the number and maintaining the name, we no longer need to file a rule change to update an endorsement number version.

Re: B-1444—NCCI's Basic Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance

Dear Commissioner Slape:

In accordance with the applicable statutes and regulations in your jurisdiction, I am filing for your consideration and approval the above-captioned item. This filing introduces the new edition of NCCI's Basic Manual for Workers Compensation and Employers Liability Insurance (Basic Manual). It is proposed that this Item become effective November 1, 2021, for all new, renewal, and in-force policies.

This new edition of the Basic Manual has been modernized with particular emphasis on structure and format for online consumption of the content, so that customers can quickly find the information they need in an increasingly electronic environment. To do that, NCCI has completely redesigned, restructured, and optimized our content, changing the overall appearance of the Basic Manual to better meet customer needs.

The attached filing memorandum explains the purpose, background, proposal, impact, exhibit comments, and implementation summary for this change. However, we would like to point out the following:

- NCCI's goal was to maintain the context and intent of the content, except for changes or clarifications that are detailed in a dedicated exhibit of State Content Changes (Informational Exhibit 2).
- Unless specifically noted in Informational Exhibit 2, the context and intent of the new manual content has not been changed from the current Basic Manual. NCCI undertook an extensive review effort to ensure consistency of the intent of the rules.
- As this is a complete modernization of the Basic Manual, it is necessary to do a one-time "complete manual" filing to help make your review and approval easier in the future. Such an effort is rare, as NCCI has not filed a complete manual in the last decade and most recently filed a complete Basic Manual in 2001.

- The Basic Manual submitted for your consideration is state-specific, as it has been purposely formatted to include only those rules applicable in that state.

The 2021 Basic Manual is the first transformation under a multiyear modernization effort, NCCI's Atlas Initiative. Additional NCCI manuals and content will be transformed over the next few years, and we look forward to providing these tools to the industry.

This filing is made on behalf of the members and subscribers of the National Council on Compensation Insurance, who are now writing or will write workers compensation insurance in your jurisdiction.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

B. Jurisdictions Where Manual Applies The jurisdictions where this manual applies are listed below. They are identified separately as competitive rating jurisdictions and administered pricing jurisdictions. The fundamental difference between these systems is that in competitive rating jurisdictions the rates and some rules contained in this manual must be filed by or filed to be adopted by the carrier. In administered pricing jurisdictions, the rates and rules contained in this manual are filed on behalf of the carrier by the National Council on Compensation Insurance, Inc. or other licensed rating organization. d. Premium Pay This rule applies with respect to higher rates of pay that are paid at the traditional overtime hourly rate of pay for work on Saturdays, Sundays, or holidays, even though the employee has not worked the normal workweek, because work on these days has been regarded traditionally as overtime and not as part of the normal workweek. Premium Pay is extra compensation paid to employees who work nights, holidays, weekends, other special hours or work under unusual conditions. This premium pay is not considered overtime pay when it is the normal pay for working these shifts. Consider an employee that works a 40-hour night shift at a rate of $15 per hour. The day shift rate of pay for the same work is $10 per hour. No overtime deduction is made from the $15 per hour since this is considered premium pay. If the night shift employee works more than the normal number of hours and receives pay in excess of the normal $15 per hour, that excess is considered overtime. Refer to User's Guide for examples.	Overtime exclusions from payroll for premium pay Rule ID: BM-OVEE-OEA7F Premium pay differs from overtime pay. Premium pay is extra compensation paid to employees who work special hours and days or work under unusual conditions that may traditionally be considered overtime. Special hours and days include Saturdays, Sundays, holidays, nights, or weekends. Even if the employee has not worked the usual workweek, it is considered premium pay, but not overtime, when it is the normal pay for working these shifts. Example of premium pay vs. overtime pay Premium pay: For a workweek of 40 hours, the day shift is paid $10 per hour, and the night shift is paid $15 per hour. Overtime exclusions from payroll are not applied to night-shift pay because this is the typical pay for working night-shift. Instead, it is considered premium pay. Overtime pay: For a night shift employee who works more than the usual workweek of 40 hours and receives an extra amount of pay over the regular rate of $15 per hour for the additional hours, that extra pay is considered overtime pay and may be excluded from payroll.
